Insurance

According to Rod Willet, at McLoughlin Center Insurance, an often overlooked aspect of insurance is the personal umbrella. Most people carry insurance on their auto and home and assume that they are protected for any catastrophe. What they do not realize is that if the claim exceeds the limits of their policy, then they are responsible for everything over that amount. This is where the umbrella policy kicks in. The best news is that the umbrella typically will cost about $150 annually for the first million. If you would like more information do not hesitate to contact Rod at 503-652-2445.
