Real Estate Tip

Looking for a new home can be exciting and frustrating. You can help alleviate some of the frustration by paying close attention to five key areas of the homes you're considering buying; it may save you money in the long run.

There are five areas in homes that inspectors frequently reports problems with. They are electrical, foundation, plumbing, the attic, and landscaping.

Having a complete home inspection will help to rule out any problems and point out any areas of concern. However, even as you're browsing homes, buyers can start to make note of the key areas that can have problems

Trivia Contest

Oregon is one of only two states where ordinary people can't pump their own gas - you must have an attendant do it. What is the name of the other state?
