

City of Maple Valley

The City of Maple Valley was incorporated August 31, 1997. Since that time the residents, City Council and City Hall staff have worked diligently to develop the City's first Comprehensive Plan, adopted November 22, 1999, and craft the Development Regulations, adopted December 13, 1999, to implement the Plan. These two instruments lay the groundwork for meeting the City of Maple Valley vision for the future. Late in 1997, after much public input, the City adopted the following mission statement.

Maple Valley will be a well-planned City with a safe, healthy and aesthetically pleasing environment. A strong sense of community will develop through effective partnerships with community organizations, maintaining historic connections with the area's rural past, and embracing the positive aspects of modern technology. The community will be economically vital with quality education and recreation opportunities.

Maple Valley has its roots in a rural lifestyle with the many wonders of nature close at hand. Mount Rainier beckons in the near distance. Lake Wilderness Park provides residents and guests with canoeing, fishing, swimming, baseball, tennis and numerous other activities. The area is rich with trails immersed in vine maples. You can hike, bike or horseback through the City to the Cedar River or take a shorter walk through the arboretum trails.

Cedar River Trail

The Cedar River Trail follows an old railroad right-of-way from downtown Renton to King County's Landsburg Park, alongside the scenic Cedar River. A branch of the trail connects with the City's Lake Wilderness Park and continues to Four Corners. Owned and maintained by King County, detailed information is available at King County's Cedar River Trail site.
